Information regarding lessons

Ground work and Green flatwork – Coach - David Carey

Groundwork is fundamental to good training under saddle. It is an unmounted lesson and its aim is to improve the horse's response to the aids and deals with behavioural issues so that they can be dealt with safely if they occur under saddle. It also helps the rider/handler to develop confidence with their horse. You will learn how to control the horse safely on the ground and begin education of the aids that you can transfer to the ridden work. These classes are great for training green horses in a safe and controlled environment with support and getting them used to working around other horses.

If your horse has had limited education since retiring from racing, then it is advisable to participate in a Groundwork class and then follow on to a Green flatwork lesson to gain maximum training benefits for you and your horse.

Preferred equipment for groundwork – It is most beneficial to train groundwork in the tack you will ride in eg bridle as the responses you train in hand will transfer clearly to the horse when ridden. You may use reins or an equaliser clip with a lead rope. If you are using a halter then a rope halter and lead rope of 2-4 metres in length. Bring a dressage whip. No horse boots. Rider to wear helmet and gloves and suitable safe footwear.

Green flatwork is suitable for the very green or inexperienced horse and is often selected after the ground work session as the next step in training for riding away from the home environment. You will learn how to ride with other horses and teach your horse how to socialise with other horses. This session is mostly conducted in walk and trot. Green flatwork is classified as rider and horse combinations that can walk and trot. Canter is optional.

Flatwork – Coach - Bec Thomas

The purpose of flatwork is to assist the ridden horse to become calm, supple, loose and flexible, but also confident, attentive and keen, thus achieving perfect understanding with its rider. Flatwork covers a multitude of exercises from circles, turns, transitions from pace to pace for example, from walk to trot/trot to walk and transitions within a pace more forward and slower to help establish control.

Lesson classification:

- Intermediate – can walk, trot and canter safely – lesson ranges from preliminary to novice.
- Advanced – confident to walk, trot and canter in a consistent frame. Has started training in lateral movements such as turn on the forehand and leg yield – lesson ranges from elementary and above.

If your horse has not worked in group lessons before it might be advisable to ride one group lower for your first group lesson.

Jumping – Coach - Kellie-Ann Crowe

Jumping lessons offer horse/rider combinations the opportunity to learn to navigate obstacles in a safe, confident manner. Lessons involve grid work, single fences and poles on the ground.

Lesson classification:

- Pole work & jumps up to 45cm – walk & trot exercises over poles to establish the basics for jumping and can walk & trot safely when in a group.
- Rails from 45cm to 60cm – can walk & trot safely when in a group, canter is optional.
- Jumps from 60cm to 80cm – can walk, trot and canter safely. Can approach in a canter to jump.

Cross Country – Coach - David Carey

These lessons serve as an introduction to the exciting sport of equine Cross Country. Horse and rider combinations will learn how to navigate a cross country landscape in a safe and controlled environment. Lessons will comprise of obstacle navigation (mounds, water obstacles), poles, slow pace work and, where safe, small obstacles.

Lesson classification:

- Environmental training (simple obstacles such as mounds or water, poles, slow pace work)
- 60cm+ (only to be attempted by experienced horse/rider combinations)

Please note: Any rider participating in Cross Country training is required to wear an approved body protector including an approved and tagged helmet. Helmet tagging will be available at this clinic.

Additional lesson information

- First timers - Equestrian WA highly recommends for riders with horses that are attending this type of clinic for the first time to consider booking into a Ground work lesson or a Flatwork Green lesson prior to any other classes. This will give your horse a chance to adjust to their surrounds and is then properly prepared for you to get the most out of any other lessons.
- Prepare your horse - Depending on the venue's capacity to provide a safe area and for you to make the most of your time in each lesson, we recommend you try to warm up your horse before the lesson starts. Further information of warm up areas will be included in the final information document once bookings close.
- Getting to class on time - Please ensure you arrive on time to your lesson, as late comers can disrupt the lesson for others, plus the coach needs time to do a safety check of horse tack and riding equipment. If arriving too late the coach has the discretion to find room for you in another lesson within their schedule.

Venue facilities

40 free yards are available at the venue. Bookings are not required and they are available on a 'first-come-first-served' basis. Please ensure that any manure, loose hay and rubbish is taken away by users before leaving the grounds.
